It is disgusting how the executives at Monsanto haven't gotten justice for their wrongdoings

As a Vietnamese person and a long-time listener of Veritasium, this is the first time in my life to understand the Agent Orange and its origin. The amount of suffering it has caused and still echoing through today generation is just pure tragic. And what's more insane is that the company behind all that got away with little to no consequences.
Anyway, my hat is off for Veritasium for making such a brave and informative series of videos like PFOA and this one. Thank you.

Bayer paid $63B for Monsanto. Now add $25B in lawsuits, $80B in wiped market cap, and $100B in missed growth.
The $63B deal really cost them over $260B. 8.8x Bayer's current market cap.

Bayer didn't buy Monsanto… they bought a financial black hole.

Dear Derek and Veritasium team, could you please do a full deep dive video on Chevron's actions in Ecuador and the Steven Donziger case? It's possibly the worst environmental disaster you've never heard of - worse than Chernobyl or the BP oil spill - and it involves corporate power, government capture, and a legal system manipulated to punish whistleblowers. The story deserves way more attention, and your channel would be the perfect platform to highlight it.
